Need of an Expert.

N. Y. Morevield, W. Va.,—I have a colt that was castrated a year ago by a man who said he could do the work, now the colt does not look as if he had been castrated and he is so cross we can not manage him, what do you think is wrong? He is now four years old, his seeds were not down when the man operated on him. Asswer:—You had better have him examined by some person you have confidence in. It is my opinion that the horse has not been castrated.
